

A Study Manual of Professional Competence in Road Transport Management

This is a complete study course in the official Professional Competence (CPC) exams in the road freight transport and distribution industries in both national and international operations. It has been updated to cover the syllabus of the 1989/90 exams. In this new edition of the manual, the author has tried to reflect the changing pattern of questions that are likely to be asked and to anticipate the material on which future questions may be based. Although the framework of the official syllabus does not vary greatly, the questions that the examiners are likely to ask are constantly changing. The text has also been amended to include mention of the differing legal or operational provisions which apply in Northern Ireland for the benefit of candidates studying for their exams there. It is a complete study course and can be used as a self-teaching aid.
