

Does a Giraffe Drive?: Early Experiences

Do giraffes drive? Of course not! They use their long, long legs to get around. Most animals use their own legs, fins, or wings to move around. But humans are the only animals that use cars, planes, bikes, and more to go from place to place. This kid-friendly introduction to movement and means of transportation is full of fun facts and humorous illustrations. Silly questions and factual answers are sure to engage both parent and child.
