

The New Rules of Sex

Its time for a sexual reeducation. The old paradigm of sexuality and relationships is no longer meeting the needs of the growing number of single people looking for love. Men and women are investing millions of dollars in the burgeoning industry of love coaches and dating advice, trying desperately to keep the old model alive in a world with very different values. Dating to marry and have children, or even to have sex within the context of a monogamous relationship, is no longer resonating with the modern world. It is time to explore something new in our sexual relationships. It is time for some new rules for sex.
