

Johnsons Atlas and Gazetteer of the Railways of Ireland

Beautifully done atlas of Irish railways with 36 pages of maps followed by an extremely detailed gazetteer covering every spot associated at some point with one of Ireland's once almost 100 railways. The second half of the book, the Route Tables, presents detailed information on which railways ran between which two points (say, Athlone to Westport Quay), the distance and station names along the route, when the stations were opened and by which railway, and when passenger and freight service was suspended, restarted or closed. 158 pages.
